EXPERIENCE

National Association for Law Placement (NALP) | Washington, D.C.

PSJD Fellow, August 2014 – present

Currently managing and promoting PSJD.org, a premier job search resource for law students and lawyers seeking public interest and government opportunities. Managing by: (1) Providing technical support and customer service to job-seekers, career officers, and employers. (2) Improving site functionality and efficiency (e.g., automating new portions of the website to decrease update times and save work hours). (3) Developing & implementing database reporting tools to track PSJD's productivity and breadth. Promoting by: (1) Lecturing at law schools to students on public interest career search tools and techniques. (2) Managing PSJD's media & communications strategy: editing PSJD blog, authoring and soliciting posts on topics related to legal career searches and access to justice and maintaining PSJD's social media presence (Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn).

Harrison Institute for Public Law, Georgetown Law | Washington, D.C.

Worker Strategies Analyst, September 2013 – May 2014

Drafted model "Just Employment Policy" and an accompanying Policy Guide on behalf of Georgetown University's Kalmanovitz Initiative for Labor and the Working Poor's (KI) efforts to assist Jesuit university students and administrators seeking to elevate the status of low-wage university workers in a climate of intense budget pressures. Researched available models for various policy choices available to KI and advised them of these choices and their legal implications.

National Law Center on Homelessness & Poverty | Washington, D.C.

Civil Rights Intern, May 2013 – August 2013

Researched recent developments in litigation to re-author domestic law section of institutional report on tent cities. Drafted memoranda analyzing the potential of novel legal claims on behalf NLCHP's client population. Researched, outlined, and drafted academic article relating domestic and international approaches to equitable remedies.

Georgetown Human Rights Institute | Washington, D.C.

Fact-Finding Practicum Team Member, September 2012 – May 2013

Developed and executed human rights fact-finding mission. Developed by: (1) co-authoring mission proposal (to secure funding), (2) identifying research locations, and (3) co-authoring pre-mission documents on the legal and factual contexts for those locations. Executed by: (1) engaging community groups to convince individuals to participate in the project, (2) conducting interviews with ~150 individuals (community leaders, politicians, experts, and community residents) over the course of two research trips spanning roughly a week-and-a-half, (3) co-authoring the mission report, and (4) briefing water rights activists and Congressional staff on report findings. Major U.S. human rights organizations recently quoted this mission report extensively in an official letter sent to U.N. officials.

Freedom Now | Washington, D.C.

Intern, May 2012 – July 2012

Drafted language for legal submissions to the U.N. Working Group on Arbitrary Detention as well as a broad array of other materials (e.g., press releases, op-ed pieces, and letters) advocating on behalf of Freedom Now's political prisoner clients. Authored background memoranda on potential cases, monitored relevant human rights news and events to identify potential cases, and proposed a novel approach to international litigation.

Office of Pro Bono Programs, Georgetown Law | Washington, D.C.

Assistant to the Director, October 2011 – September 2012

Developed & implemented Microsoft Access database allowing employees to track pro bono contributions and achievements of Georgetown Law students based on online data reported with Symplicity. Catalogued existing pages within office website (active and defunct) and reorganized website sitemap for Law-Center-wide website redesign. Experimented with Georgetown Law's new CMS (Content Management System) to accommodate Director's request for officially unsupported dynamic page features (an "Announcements" section with currently-available Pro Bono Opportunities).

Adaptive Technology Lab, Harvard University | Cambridge, MA

Adaptive Technologist, September 2008 – June 2011

Supported Harvard University students with visual, motor, or cognitive disabilities. Interviewed students to determine their technological accessibility needs. Met with teaching staff and university accessibility officers to ensure those needs were met. Supervised temporary employees. Researched and recommended new assistive technologies. Developed a process to overcome technical defects among tools for producing computer-voiced mathematics; prototyped a Perl program automating the process.
